An invitation to the Jewellery Industry Voices webinar on July 30, to get a view of the 'big picture' with leading industry analysts

Since the first announcement on December 31 by the Chinese government that the health services in the city of Wuhan were treating dozens of patients infected with a novel coronavirus, the world has undergone a profound transformation. Economies, markets and entire industries were shut down in an attempt to contain the spread of the pandemic, and then reopened, all the while cognizant that future restrictions and lockdowns remain possible, if not likely.

For the jewellery industry it has been a nerve racking period, as much as a result of the uncertainty as it has been because of the economic slowdown and general concerns about health and safety. But about one fact there is general agreement – the jewellery business in the post-COVID world will be greatly different to the one that existed before the pandemic.

For the past 14 weeks, Jewellery Industry Voices has polled the opinions of industry leaders, experts and trendsetters, with the goal being to better understand the impact and consequences of the COVID-19 crisis, and to develop an understanding of what the future holds. In a situation as dynamic and complex as the one we are living through, it has been a daunting but fascinating undertaking.

The 15th edition of CIBJO's webinar series will be the last edition of the first season of Jewellery Industry Voices, before the August hiatus. It will feature four of the industry's most respected analysts, who together will help distill a vast amount of information that has been gathered over the past several months, to provide a broader perspective of where the industry stands and where it is headed. The webinar is entitled “Digging deep into the data: The jewellery industry analysts.”

The panel includes Paul Zimnisky, a New York-based global diamond industry analyst whose research and analysis is used by financial institutions, management consulting firms, private and public corporations, governments, international organizations and universities; Pranay Narvekar, a Mumbai-based consultant specializing in many of the crucial strategic, financial and structural problems facing the industry pipeline; Edahn Golan, an expert whose in-depth data analysis is based on his own detailed data and research of the mining, wholesale and retail markets, as well as rough and polished price analysis; and Russell Shor, an industry veteran with more than 40 years of experience, including being the in-house analyst for the Gemological Institute of America (GIA).

The webinar, on Thursday, July 30, 2020, will be moderated by Edward Johnson and Steven Benson, and hosted by CIBJO President Gaetano Cavalieri. It will start at 9:00 AM New York, 2:00 PM London, 3:00 PM Milan, 5:00 PM Dubai, 6:30 PM Mumbai, 9:00 PM Hong Kong.

CIBJO's Jewellery Industry Voices webinar series is produced with the support of the Italian Exhibition Group, organiser of the VICENZAORO jewellery shows.

The second season of Jewellery Industry Voices will begin on September 3, 2020. Information about the new schedule will be made public during the month of August.
